

About Anna

Anna has spent twenty years coaching senior executives at blue chip global companies.

Anna has a business degree, is in the process of completing a Masters in Occupational Psychology, a management consultancy background and coaching tools and techniques ranging from Harvard Business School models to Hypnotherapy and Neuro Linguistic Programming.

With a personal mission to incorporate an eclectic range of strategies to accelerate success she has a holistic approach towards getting the best out of corporations, teams and individuals.

Anna has worked with over 300 business leaders, particularly in the Portfolio Management and Creative industry sectors.

She particularly enjoys working on business growth and major sales. Every assignment is bespoke and all her clients have been derived from recommendations, reputation and repeat business.

As well as focussed and highly effective, her clients vouch that she is fun to have around.
